Words to Freeze the Soul.

"Your son has Consumption. His case is hopeless." These appalling words were spoken to Geo. E. Blevens, a leading merchant of Springfield, N. C., by two expert doctors—one a lung specialist. Then was shown the wonderful power of Dr. King's New Discovery. "After three weeks' use," writes Mr. Blevens, "he was as well as ever. I would not take all the money in the world for what it did for my boy." Infalible for Coughs, colds, Croup, it's the safest, surest cure of desperate Lung diseases on earth. 50c and $1.00 at all druggists. Guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free

Time's Changes in Venezuela.

Venezuela received its musical name from the early Spanish residents, who saw a resemblance to Venice in the sites of the inland cities. The llanos, or bleak plains, on which the llanos live a precarious life, have largely changed their character since Humboldt saw them. Then these great plains of grass supported innumerable herds of cattle; but civil war led to the destruction of the beasts to feed the insurgents. The llanos are now rapidly becoming a potential source of timber.

Best Medicine is Sleep.

The best nerve food in the world is sleep. Good, sound, refreshing sleep will do more to replenish the nerve centers and build up a fagged brain than anything that can be devised. Nervous people ought to cultivate the practice of sleeping after dinner. A short nap after the noon meal will strengthen the nerves, and make it much more liable that the rest of the day will be spent in some sort of comfort.

Fright Results in Paralysis.

An engineer at a paper works at Essonne, France, recently pushed another employee into a big dye tub for a joke. When the victim had changed his clothes he returned to the works, and, seizing the engineer, made as though to drop him over the parapet on the second floor. The engineer was so frightened that paralysis ensued, the whole of his right side being seized. His condition is very grave.

And the Others?

The other-people's-business man persisted in trying to extract information from a prosperous looking elderly man next to him in the Pullman smoker. "How many people work in your office?" he asked. "Oh," said the elderly man, getting up and throwing away his cigar, "I should say, at a rough guess, about two-thirds of them."

First Mention of Playing Cards.

The earliest direct mention of playing cards discovered so far is in the "History of the City of Viterbo." The author quotes Covelluzzo, who wrote about the end of the fifteenth century as follows: "In the year 1379 was brought into Viterbo the game of cards, which comes from the country of the Saracens and is with them called naib."

A Cross-Eyed Hit.

"That handsome cross-eyed boy makes a great hit when he gives a recitation," whispered one whose eyes are straight. "He seems to be so impartial. They think he is looking at them all at one and the same time when the fact of the matter is that he can't look a single one of them straight in the face."

FATHER EQUAL TO OCCASION.

A Child in a Subway Train Who Cried Once Too Often.

An Italian with his wife and two little children got into the subway train bound uptown. There were seats enough, so the wife and one child in arms sat down. The man, carrying the other infant, prepared to take a seat.

The moment he sat down the little girl in his arms set up a cry. She wouldn't stop until the man got up. For a time, as long as he remained standing, she was quiet. The moment he started again to be seated she wailed again.

So he had to remain standing. The child then reached for the cord by which the signals are given from car to car. It was too high above her head. So she cried again.

The father tried to divert her attention to the straps as being more worthy of her notice. But she wouldn't be appeased. What was he to do?

Soon answered. He turned the baby over his knee as he sat down firmly and gave her something to cry for. A shocked look came over that little girl's face and then, after a few last howls, she was very silent.

Her father sat there with a look as of one who has solved a problem.—New York Sun.

TWIN FOES OF TUBERCULOSIS.

Fresh Air and Sunlight Always to Be Depended Upon.

Fresh air and sunlight are the great preventives and cures. Consumption cannot maintain a hold upon people who take plenty of pure oxygen into their lungs sleeping and waking. Tuberculosis in any of its forms was extremely rare among the Indians, if not entirely unknown to them, before the advent of the whites. Like the negroes and other members of savage races that have been brought under the influence of civilization, the aborigines of this continent displayed an unusual degree of susceptibility to pulmonary diseases. Since the Indian has begun to change the manner of his life, taking insufficient exercise, over-clothing himself, consuming alcohol and living in a stuffy log cabin, tuberculosis has laid a constantly increasing hold upon him, so that now it is much more frequently manifest in the red man than in his white brother.—From "The Great White Plague" in The Craftsman.

History of Word "Person."

Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, it is said, once asserted that a woman was not a "person" and now Miss Chrystal Macmillan, London suffragette, insists that the word "person" in its legal sense includes women. The word has had an interesting history. Signifying by etymology something to make a sound through, the Latin "persona" began by meaning an actor's mask with which its mouthpiece. Then it meant the character represented by the player—"dramatis personae." Then it came to mean the part or character one sustains in real life; and so the "persons ecclesiae," the men who represented the church, became known as a "person" in a special sense, and was eventually spelled as "person." On the other hand, "person" faded away to mean just anybody. And so, though a woman naturally resents being referred to as a "person," in ordinary talk, many women no less naturally desire to count as "persons" in the eye of the franchise law.

Education of Mexican Women.

As an evidence of the progressiveness of their country, the Mexicans point to its treatment of women, especially in the matter of education. All its national colleges and professional schools including those of music and art, give free tuition and are open alike to men and women. Some 20 years ago when the first woman was graduated from the medical school the minister of education made her a present of a carriage and enough money to set her up in her profession. There are now in the Mexico city alone at least ten well-known women physicians, all having large and lucrative practices. The national bureau of education is composed of 15 members, of whom four are women.

Noah's Masterpiece.

The book store clerk hadn't made a sale, but it was because the book the woman wanted has not yet been published. "And she wouldn't believe there was no such book," said the clerk.

"When she came in I knew she wasn't a book buyer, and any one would have known it when she said: 'I want a copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.'"

"She was right after me when I tried to work off on her the mere unabridged edition. She wouldn't have it, and she left in a huff when I couldn't produce one."

"But what she wanted any kind of a dictionary for is a question I cannot answer."
